Dear Friends, (Ya'at'eeh)

Come with us for a time to review your cultural beginnings in this country. You can envision your participation in its loving past. In doing so, you are caring for the sweet cultural heritage of the world. The Dine'h (Navajo people) are proud to present you with cultural roots that affect all of humanity. Our love of the land, the trees, and plants, the animals, the birds and the water is the basis for your natural future. See us as your loving teachers for survival of the planet.

Join Four Winds Weavers in driving the future by supporting a loving past. These are the programs we have developed.

We:

- Help families of low income by providing food, food certificates, clothing, clothing gift certificates.
- Provide toys, clothing, school supplies, outerwear, and school clothes to children of low income families, and children with no parents.
- Provide single teen mothers with infant and children's wear and food certificates.
- Provide disabled people with wool and instructions for weaving Navajo rugs, and Christmas gifts for their whole families.
- Work with Traditional Dine'h Elders to provide feed for their domestic animals: sheep, cattle, horses, chickens, dogs, etc., especially those in remote places.
- Provide other venues and opportunities for Dine'h elders and weavers to sell their traditional rugs for their source of income.
- Provide traditional Native Healing Ceremonies for those in need; elders, youth and veterans.

We are creating an environment that will sustain your future. Invest now in a way of life that is organized around sharing – that which all people will do in the years ahead. We are grateful for your fully tax deductible donations to Four Winds Weavers, a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization.

Sincerely,

Grandmother Grace Smith Yellow Hammer
